In Memoriam

Edward M. Sternin

Joseph Tangarie

Richard Featherstone

Jeffrey C. Light

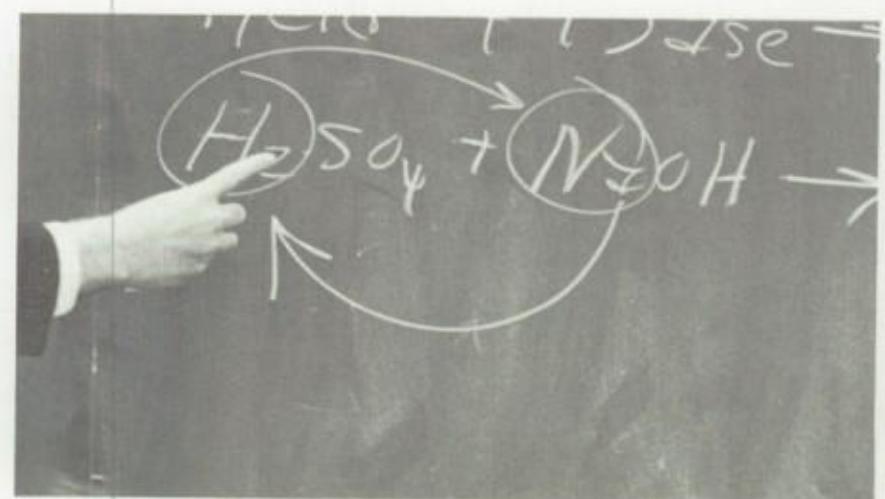

William Berenwick

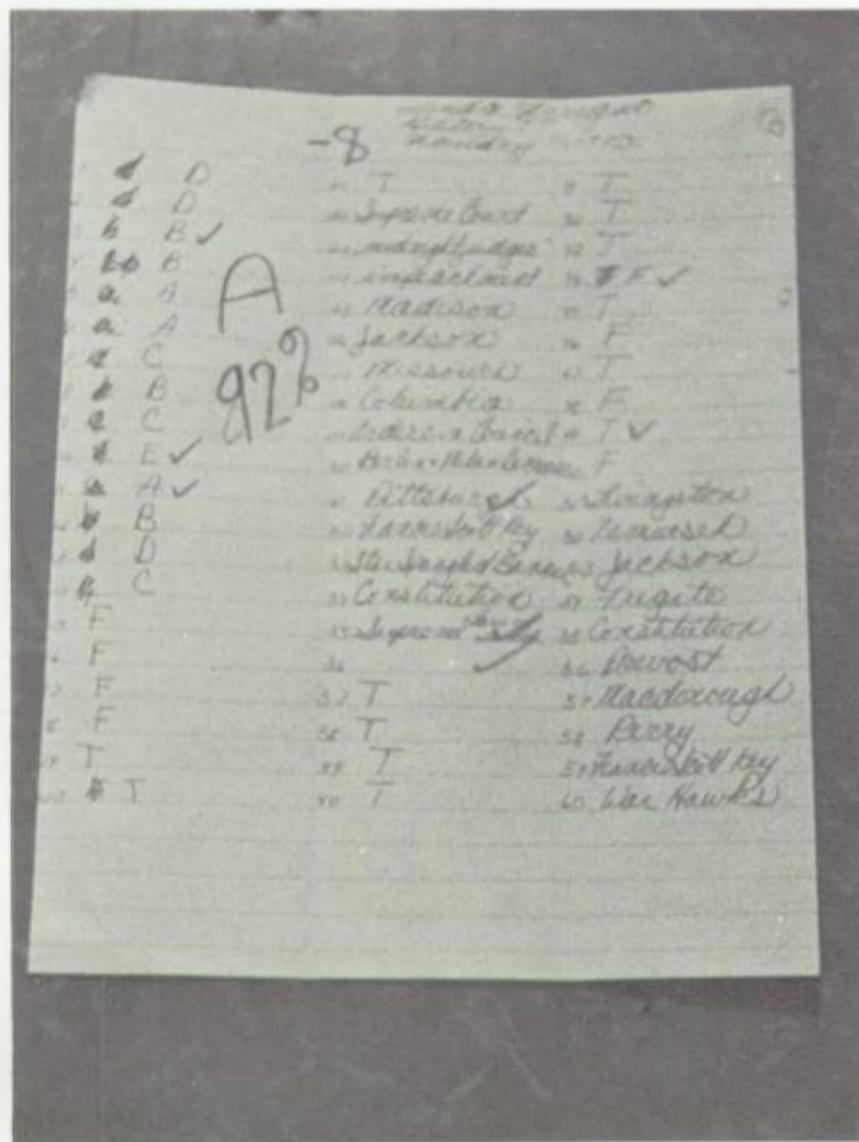

Down, down, down into the darkness of the grave
Gently they go, the beautiful, the tender, the kind;
Quietly they go, the intelligent, the witty, the brave.
I know. But I do not approve. And I am not resigned.

— Edna St. Vincent Millay

dr. avella

The name of Dr. Anthony A. Avella has become familiar to leaders in progressive education. Since his appointment to the post of Superintendent of Hillside Public Schools last July, he has become both instrumental and inspirational in encouraging new, more effective methods of learning in the elementary schools and Hillside High School.

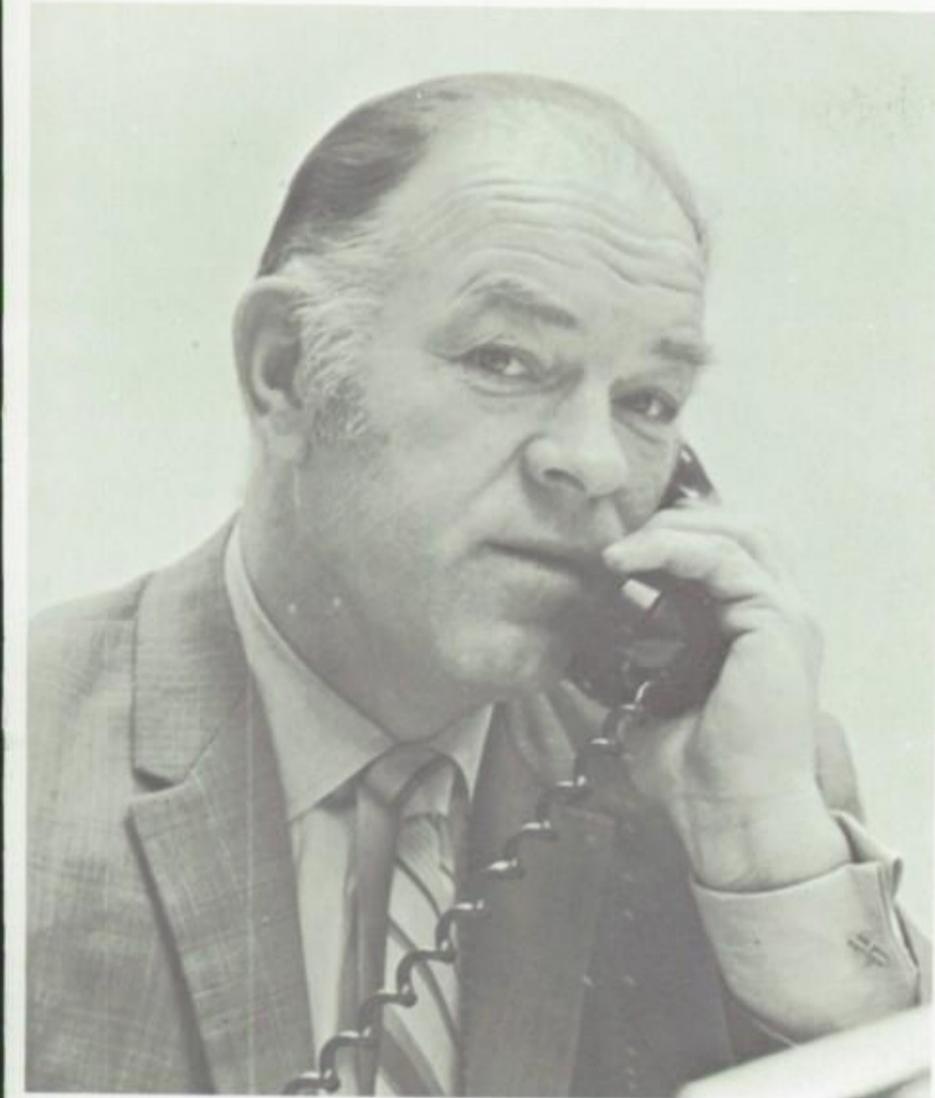

Having completed its maiden year at Hillside High, modular scheduling is the brainchild of Dr. Avella. He was also a key figure in the Independent Study program at the high school. These programs have influenced the elementary schools to prepare their students for secondary school.

After a successful first year of progressive education, Dr. Avella has done more than gain headlines. He is giving Hillside educated individuals of a calibre to truly be proud of.

THE HILLER

Volume XXX, No. 7

HILLSIDE HIGH SCHOOL, HILLSIDE, NEW JERSEY

April 18, 1969

Hiller Selects 1969-70 Editorial Board; Richard Vespucci Assumes Head Post

Since February, the HILLER has gone through the yearly ritual of trying-out prospective candidates for positions as editors on the paper. At the conclusion, junior Richard Vespucci as the new Editor-in-Chief for the 1969-70 school year. Beverly Mangold is to serve as Co-Editor of the publication.

Besides these two new editors replacing Anne Deutsch and Jerry Genberg, the remaining Hiller editors were also chosen. Page One editor Cathy Pollak will relinquish her job of organizing and writing to junior Diane Drew. John Spitals will take on the position of Page Two editor formerly held by Beverly Mangold.

Wendy Sirkin's job as Page Three editor will become the responsibility of Ruth Zucker-man. Junior Roberta Slater will acquire Diane Drew's position as she becomes Page Four editor.

Pages Five and Six of the Hiller are reserved for sports' news and features. This year Richard Vespucci has organized these two pages. For the 1969-70 Hiller, the responsibility of sports' news will be divided. Eddy Liebowitz and Joe Tato will share the editorship of Page Five. Page Six will go to Stan Lemond.

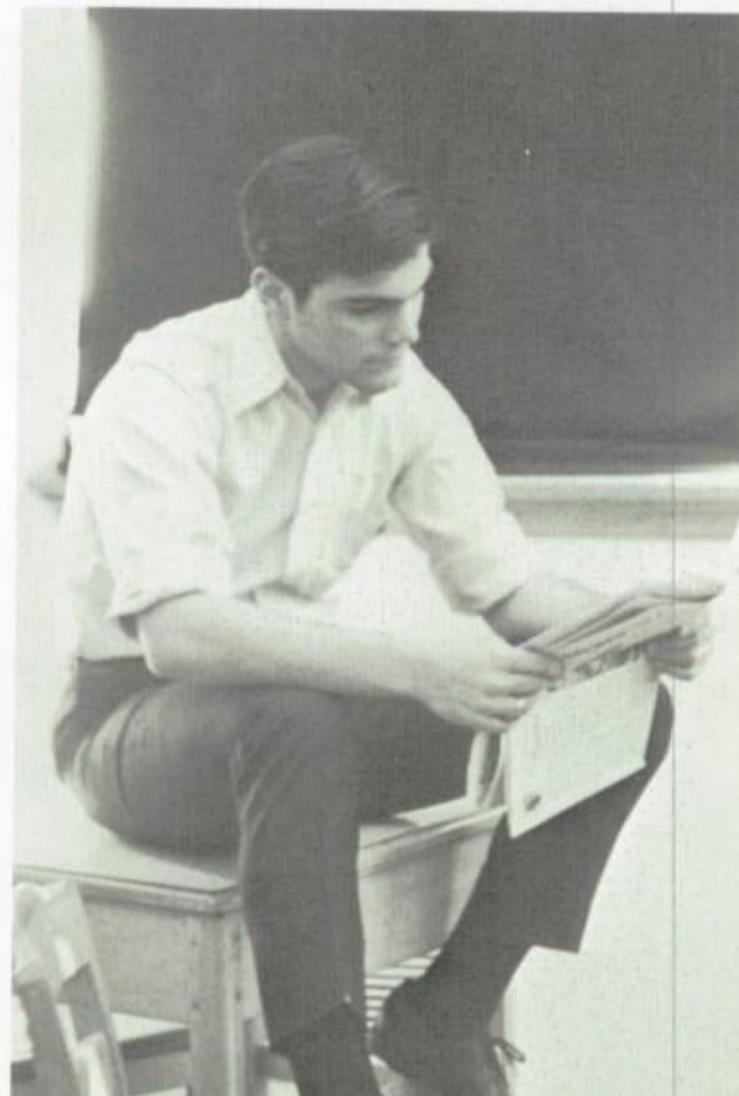

Writing headlines is an essential job on the Hiller. Serena Fox and Fran Silberich will assume this task previously held by Ellen Siegalovsky and Roberta Slater. Proof-reading and rewriting articles are the jobs of the Copy editors. Ellen Freund will continue in this position while Margery Friedman replaces Marilyn Kuner.

Creativeness in the form of art will be the responsibility of Glenn Chase who will assume Gary Klueber's editorship. Eddy Liebowitz will continue in his job as Photography editor.

Richard Vespucci

Lewis Janowsky and Gail Piroshsky will give up their duties as Business editors to Vicki Cella and Steven Novy. The new Typing editors will be Joy Norton and Caren Peckerman who receive Rebecca Plakcy and Ruth Zuckerman's former jobs. Pat Bontempo will serve as Feature Editor and Roving Reporter.

Financially they're on "Cloud 9," reaping the profits of numerous personal appearances and a percentage of two 45's and three albums.

Their latest album, "Cloud Nine" has shown a decline in the Temptations with their new lead singer. The untrained, harsh voice of Dennis Edwards can never match Ruffin's polished style. Also, his limited voice range throws the entire group off in many numbers.

High points of the "Cloud Nine" LP are "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," "Hey Girl," and a 9:38 version of "Runaway Child, Runnin' Wild." The Temptations will always be good, but it is unlikely that they will ever again reach greatness--at least not with Edwards singing lead.

cafeteria, followed by a tour of the beautiful Ivy League campus.

The following day, Mr. Baldassano's two junior World History classes traveled to New York. Their first stop was the Federal Reserve Building of New York, where over one-quarter of all the official monetary gold of the free world is found, about $13 billion worth. The students then visited Trinity Church, a beautifully ornamented Episcopal Church, built in English Gothic style. The final stop was at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Here many of the students viewed the newest exhibition, "Harlem On My Mind," which traced the beginnings of white Harlem to black Harlem. The Greek, Egyptian, Roman, and Cloister collections were seen.

DARE Speaks To Seniors; Ex-Addicts Discuss Drugs

On Wednesday, April 2, seniors participated in a program dealing with the topic of drugs--their effects, use, and philosophy. DARE, a non-profit organization devoted to the rehabilitation and prevention of drug addiction conducted the group sessions.

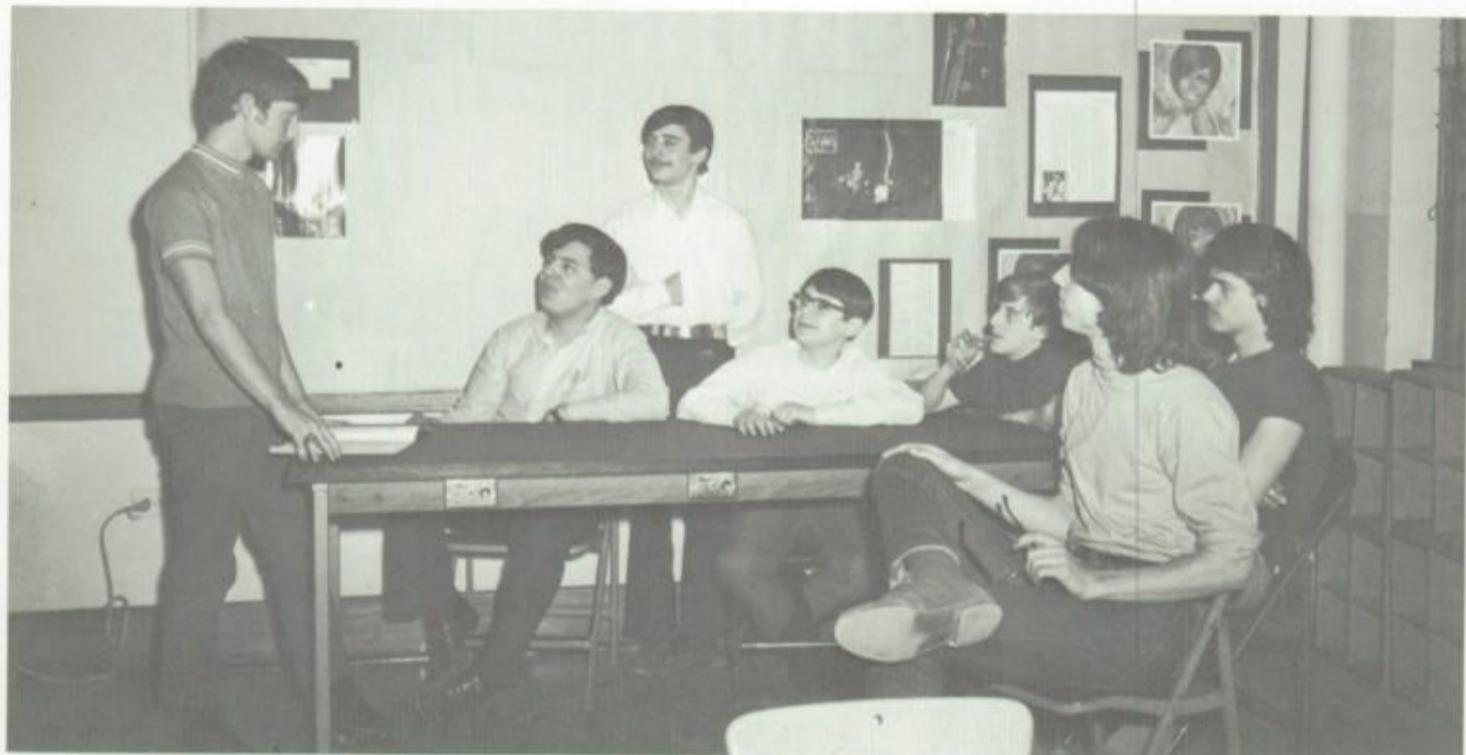

Ex-addicts Anthony DiCicco, John Dreher, Bob Giquinto, Benjamin Raslice, Henry Ramos, George Shasa and Patricia Taylor addressed the groups. Discussions were carried on without teachers present in the classrooms.

The members of DARE told students how and why they began using drugs. Some discussed the mental and physical effects drugs had upon them.

The following are some reactions of the class of '69 had to
